

The Boston Globe

February 2, 2010

Couple's two-front battle aids Haiti

Pair raise funds, do relief work

By James F. Smith, Globe Staff

Jim Ansara, a sturdy, 52-year-old former electrician from Boston, made his way to the devastated main hospital in the Haitian capital four days after the earthquake and went to work amid piles of lifeless bodies. ■

